

Simply Gorgeous

Contributed by Kimberly Bean

There are some absolute gems of online shops that exist on the web, it's just a matter of finding them. One of my favorites that offers a fabulous selection of items is Hanson Ellis though I'm not sure whether it's because some of their products are so cute, so unique or so clever! If you've finally decided upon having a beach wedding, then one of the more unusual items available, that is very effective, is a "message in a bottle" invitation. There is a selection of gifts for each member of the bridal party as well as guests and they are categorized in several different ways, to make your search for that ideal gift as easy as possible. You can choose between various wedding themes such as beach wedding, Asian wedding, and garden theme or for something a little different, a coffee and tea wedding theme, with items such as miniature porcelain cups, tea infusers, and silver coffee scoops. For something simpler, there is an assortment of custom boxes filled with sugar almonds, or chocolate liqueur bottles which are very stylish and also economic. After all, weight, if you're flying to your chosen destination, is a concern. Oh, they also have engraved glassware – perfect for the bride and groom during the speeches and toasts, and, if they survive the reception, a lovely keepsake of the day.
